Warriors break the Outlaws, 18-0

The Outlaws' perfect record goes down in defeat; solid runs, passing sealed victory for Warriors

Combat Correspondent

The Headquarters Bn. Warriors registered their first victory of the Base Intramural Tackle Football season, when they defeated the unbeaten Outlaws of Combat Service Support Group 3, 18-0 at Pop Warner field Sept. 18.

The Warriors utilized a speedy defense, led by linebacker Aaron Dobson, to control the clock and keep CSSG-3 off the scoreboard and out of the end zone.

The first quarter began with some heavy hitting from both teams. Neither offense moved the ball particularly well, and it seemed clear from the beginning that the game would be a low-scoring affair.

On one of the Outlaws' first drives, safety Brian Whitt intercepted his second pass of the year. The Warriors were unable to convert the turnover into any points.

During the final seconds of the first quarter, Headquarters Bn. fumbled a field goal attempt, and defensive end/kicker Nick Hasenfratz quickly threw the ball for an incomplete pass before being drilled into the turf by a quick Outlaw defensive line.

The quarter ended scoreless for both teams.

The second quarter belonged to the Warriors; however, as they struck quick to get on the scoreboard with a touchdown pass from quarterback Peter Degennaro to wide receiver Joshua Sutton, after running back Darrel Rhea brought the team into the red zone with a big run.

The Warriors failed to make the two-point conversion, but were ahead 6-0.

Outlaw running back Derrannal McDonald managed to break away from the Warriors defense during the second quarter, but none of his attempts reached the end zone, as CSSG failed to convert any points.

The Outlaws made it to the Warrior 5-yard line on one possession, but turned the ball over after a hand off fumbled.

The Warriors struck again in the second quarter when Degennaro scrambled from the 3-yard line to increase the Headquarters Bn. lead to 12 points, with just over a minute remaining in the half.

The Warriors field goal kicker was injured earlier

The Varsity Soccer team from MCB Hawaii, Kaneohe Bay, lost a close game to Hawaii Pacific University, Friday, in a "friendly" game at HPU.

Rain falling hard in the beginning of the game didn't stop the Varsity team from getting on the scoreboard first.

race to the goal, and drilled the ball past the goalie for the first score of the game at the 3:41 mark.

Twenty-five minutes into the first half, HPU's Luis Oliviera tied the score 1-1, when he did a flying kick and sent the ball past Marine goalie Adrianne Norris.

After two more unsuccessful goal attempts by MCBH midfielder Mario Morales, the first half came to a close with the score tied at 1-1.

The second half kicked off with another unsuccessful goal attempt by Morales. Nineteen minutes later, HPU forward Lance Fofana scored the final goal of the game with a cross field kick to bring HPU the win, 2-1.

"It was a close game all the way through," said Marine assistant coach Andy Gasper.

"We must work on our communication on the field, and that comes with time. We are still a new team," said Gasper.

The varsity team's next stop will be the regional tournament in Okinawa, Japan.

"I think that if we work on our communication, we should come out on top in Okinawa," said Morales. "We played a hard game today. I feel that we have come a long way in the three weeks our team has been together.

"If we stick to the basics, we will be a successful team in the future."

'Celebrity Boot Camp' airs Monday

Left — Kato Kaelin receives a little extra instruction from drill instructor Chief Warrant Officer 3 Tony Rosenbush during induction day on “Celebrity Boot Camp.” The popular show returns on Monday, at 8 p.m. Eastern and Pacific Time, on the FOX television network. The upcoming episodes were filmed in California, aboard Marine Corps Recruit Depot San Diego and at Marine Corps Base Camp Pendleton, in its Camp Deluz training area. In addition to being filmed almost entirely aboard Marine Corps property, various units aboard Camp Pendleton provided critical support to help ensure the success of “Celebrity Boot Camp.”

Weekend hunting, fishing events to shoot out hunger

Hawaii Department of Land & Natural Resources
Press Release

Hunters and anglers are invited to take their best shot at hunger during the 31st National Hunting & Fishing Weekend, Saturday and Sunday.

There will be lots of fun demonstrations, food and prizes at the recreational event taking place at Kokohead Shooting Range (the first right before Hanauma Bay, going toward Waikiki on Kalanianaʻole Highway), from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

Hawaii sports enthusiasts are encouraged to bring canned food or cash donations with them, as these proceeds will be donated to the Hawaii Food Bank.

For each donation, participants will receive a free activity coupon to participate in skeet, .22 rifle/handgun, muzzle-loader, archery, airgun, or fish casting contests.

Hunters and anglers contribute more than a billion dollars each year toward fish and wildlife conservation, through excise tax contributions.

The Dept. of Land & Natural Resources provides regular (free) hunter education classes, which cover topics such as wildlife identification and conservation, archery safety, survival, first aid, firearms and more. The next session is Oct. 4 and 5.

Call 587-0200 for more.

USP sets standards for OTC, prescription, other medicines

NAPS
Featurettes

The U.S. has the most advanced and safest healthcare system in the world. But how does the government ensure the millions of supplements, over-the counter medicines and prescription products Americans use are effective?

It uses the United States Pharmacopeia.

The USP sets standards for prescription and over-the-counter drugs, dietary supplements, healthcare technologies and ingredients. Whether it's an aspirin, a vitamin or a prescription drug, USP standards ensure product identity, strength, quality and purity. That helps consumers know that the products they use will perform as expected.

How do you know if a drug or over-the-counter medication you take meets USP standards?

Within the U.S., USP standards are officially recognized in the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. This act is law and is enforceable by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. United States pharmaceutical manufacturers must comply with USP standards.

Health Awareness

Some pharmaceutical and dietary supplement manufacturers place the USP initials on their product containers to inform customers their products meet USP standards.

What are the other USP public health programs?

The USP has a Dietary Supplement Verification Program. It was developed in response to the public's increasing concerns about the quality of dietary supplements in the marketplace.

Through compliance testing and document review, adherence to good manufacturing principles, and post-marketing surveillance, DSVP is designed to help ensure that dietary supplement products contain the declared ingredients in the stated quantities.

Products that have been certified under DSVP are entitled to bear the special USP DSVP mark.

Further information about DSVP is available at www.usp-dsvp.org.

The USP also operates two medication error reporting, tracking, and analysis programs: the Medication Errors Reporting Program (operated in collaboration with the Institute for Safe Medication Practices) and MedMARxSM, which is an Internet-accessible database for hospitals to report and track medication errors anonymously.

Cyclists wind up 270-mile ride at Pentagon

Linda D. Kozaryn
American Forces Press Service

WASHINGTON — About 1,200 cyclists, including a Tour de France champion and the brother of the pilot whose plane hit the Pentagon, arrived at the military headquarters Sunday, completing a 270-mile ride from Ground Zero, the site of the terrorist attack on the World Trade Center.

For three days, about 600 men and 600 women from 42 states and 10 foreign countries united in sport to honor those who lost their lives in the Sept. 11 terrorist attack on America.

Riding in “Face of America 2002,” they included firemen and police, about 200 service members and family members. The youngest cyclist was 10; the oldest 76.

In all, about 2,500 cyclists took part in the event, organized by World TEAM Sports, a nonprofit organization with the motto “The Exceptional Athlete Matters.” Based in Charlotte, N.C., the group promotes total inclusion and integration in sports, with a focus on people with disabilities.

The Face of America team included several amputees; two blind Kenyans — victims of the 1998 terrorist attack on the U.S. Embassy in Nairobi — riding the back seats of tandem bikes; a Norwegian disabled-rights activist; a Polish citizen who lost both his arms in a land-mine cleanup campaign following World War II; and a 13-person team of Israelis and Palestinians.

While some cyclists rode for a day, others made the full journey through New Jersey and Maryland, stopping at the Naval Academy football stadium in Annapolis, prior to riding past the Capitol, crossing the finish line at the Pentagon’s north parking lot.

Greg LeMond, a three-time Tour De France champion, was among the riders.

“These riders are indeed the face of America, in all of its courage, compassion, color, creed and expression,” he said in a press release prior to the event. “They ride to honor those who lost their lives in the last year’s tragedy and to carry the beauty and produce of their lives into the future.”

Mark Burlingame, a heart surgeon from Lancaster, Pa., rode to honor all those who died, but especially his brother, Capt. Charles Burlingame III, who piloted American Airlines Flight 77. Terrorists hijacked the flight and flew the plane into the Pentagon, killing 184 men, women and children.

“As a novice, I faced this ride with trepidation and high hopes, and I far exceeded what I thought I could accomplish,” said Burlingame. He said the physically challenged athletes who took part especially inspired him and he enjoyed hearing people’s stories.

“Many of us came to honor the memory of family, friends and colleagues,” Burlingame said. “I know that they were with us on this ride, especially during those moments when we had to reach down for that last ounce of strength.”

Burlingame said the riders are “the face of America.” We come from all walks of life, young and old, all races and creeds. We embody the spirit of America. We have bonded in this ride in mind and body and made a powerful statement on behalf of all Americans and all friends of America.

“Terrorism will not stand,” he declared. “We will not be broken. We will not forget, and we will help rid the scourge of terrorism from the face of this earth.”

Bob Graham of Arlington County Fire Department was also among the riders. He presented a plaque to some of the New York City firemen who made the ride.

“We met a lot of really great people out there,” he said, “but mostly, our brothers in the New York City Fire Department. We have never stopped thinking about them for the last year or so.”

Charles Abell, assistant defense secretary for force management policy, welcomed the cyclists to the Pentagon and commended their effort. He said the ride exemplified America’s “strength, resilience and hope.”

“The brutal attacks of Sept. 11 were not just against famous buildings,” he said. “The terrorists targeted the American people and our way of life. But people responded with courage, generosity and power.”

Abell said the Defense Department was grateful for the cards, gifts, teddy bears and best wishes that poured into the damaged building after the attack, which “lifted spirits.”

The CSSG-3 Outlaws were good sports after Headquarters Bn. handed them their first defeat of the season Sept. 18. Right — Warriors running back Michael Haughton helped add up the yards that took Headquarters Bn. to victory.

WARRIORS, From C-1

in the week, during a practice, leaving the team to attempt two-point conversions all night. Headquarters Bn. failed to convert another two-pointer, but remained ahead 12-0 going into the half. For the entire first half, the Warriors controlled the clock and the ball with a solid running game and a neatly scripted passing attack. Their defense held CSSG-3 to a minimum of yardage as they constantly harassed the Outlaw backfield and caused a number of turnovers. The second half held only more of the same for both teams. With 10:14 left in the game, Headquarters Bn. completed one more drive to a six-point finish, as quarterback Vance Moore rushed around the end of the Outlaw defense on 5-yard touchdown run. After missing yet another two-point conversion, the Warriors scored the final points of the game and sealed the victory at 18-0. The Outlaws had several more possessions to try and stage a comeback, but each time they were stuffed by the Warrior defense. “I think we finally came together as a team out here tonight,” said Warriors Coach Kenneth Etheridge. “We managed to play a full 60 minutes of football and come out with a pretty dominant victory. “We played pretty well in the first half of our game last week, but tonight we put it all together.” Key players for the Warriors included running back Byron

Walker who racked up major yardage against the Outlaw defense and helped Headquarters Bn. control the clock for the entire game. On the defensive side, linebacker Aaron Dobson was constantly in the Outlaw backfield and made a number of big tackles and recovered a fumble for the dominant Warrior defense that kept CSSG-3 scoreless.
